FORMER SNOOKER PRO JOINS BRIDGE MCFARLAND

A former professional snooker player has been recruited by solicitors Bridge McFarland to strengthen their private client teams in Lincoln and Market Rasen.

Experienced private client adviser Jonathan Fall, 32, will advise clients on a range of issues including wills, probate, trusts, enduring powers of attorney and court of protection work. He will also deal with specialised work for elderly clients.

Jonathan played snooker full-time for two years after leaving school but returned to the amateur ranks after a major sponsor had to end its support. He has since played many times for the Lincolnshire county team.

After giving up full-time snooker, he worked for a firm of financial advisers before joining Burton and Co Solicitors in Lincoln in 1998. He has also worked as a private client adviser for Beetenson and Gibbon in Grimsby.
