

DEBORAH CELEBRATES QUALIFICATION SUCCESS

Bridge McFarland lawyer Deborah Kemp has qualified as a solicitor after successfully completing her professional skills' course.

Miss Kemp, 29, qualified this month after two years working in the firm's Lincoln, Louth and Grimsby offices.

During her training, she gained experience in all aspects of Bridge McFarland's work and she is now specialising in the field of medical negligence.

Miss Kemp joined Bridge McFarland after obtaining a degree in law and French from the University of Hertfordshire and a masters degree in biotechnological law and ethics from the University of Sheffield. She also successfully completed a legal practice course in Nottingham.

Her interests outside work include French cinema, literature and travel.
